SRA International Roster

SRA International brings its extensive contract and roster management experience to EPA's Conflict Prevention and Resolution services contract. The roster of nationally recognized firms and independent consultants includes many distinguished names in the field of environmental consensus building and dispute resolution. These professionals have experience across the entire spectrum of alternative dispute resolution practices: public participation, facilitation, convening, mediation and arbitration. They have significant knowledge and experience in the major environmental statutes and regulations. This roster can be expanded to meet the needs of a particular task, if necessary.

Scope

The scope of services that the SRA International roster of professionals provides under the contract is very broad. Specifically, SRA International assists EPA and other authorized Federal agencies by providing appropriate consensus and dispute resolution professionals with expertise in:

- Dispute prevention
- Consensus building
- Case mediation or arbitration
- Training on consensus building and dispute resolution topics
- Research on ADR-related topics
- "Just-in-Time" facilitation and coaching
- Employee/work place disputes
- Strategic planning and organizational development
- ADR systems design
- Facilitation and meeting support
- Web-based collaborative problem solving
- Logistical support

Contract Features

- Can be accessed by all EPA Headquarters and Regional offices as well as other Federal agencies
- Provides an expert roster of consensus and dispute resolution professionals
- Offers a full range of consensus and dispute resolution services
- Provides team members located across the nation

Conflict Prevention and Resolution Services Contract

How to Reach Us

There are eight easy steps to accessing Conflict Prevention and Resolution Services:

1. Client consults with EPA Project Officer to determine if the project falls within the scope of services
2. Client secures funding (Federal clients other than EPA need to contact the Project Officer to establish an interagency agreement) and works with Conflict Prevention and Resolution Center staff to design a consensus-building stakeholder involvement, or alternative dispute resolution process
3. Client develops statement of work and cost estimate
4. Client contacts EPA Project Officer and submits paperwork
5. EPA Contracting Officer reviews, approves, and issues task order
6. SRA International responds with a workplan and outline of appropriate resources
7. Client approves work plan
8. Work begins
